What's up My Ninjas!

Well, I'm not much of a Jewish scholar or person that has studied the feasts (the Israelites were COMMANDED to keep them), but I do know that roughly around this time is when we roll into the Hebraic New Year. And in my own prophetic capacity, though not the most prophetic of my declarations, I can tell you confidently that there is a sense of POWER that has come this year upon the kings and priests on the earth who have remained faithful to the Lord when all they had was little.

I mean let's start here, the idea that we must grow in stature with God and with man. In my opinion, this is a picture of the Scripture, "He who exalts himself shall be humbled, and he who humbles himself shall be exalted." My dudes, can God be mocked?

Anyone into math? I studied up to three dimensional integral Calculus, which was basically six core classes, and though I pretty much forgot almost all of the technical maneuvers prior to basic Algebra, and God is telling me to pick it up again.. and even though my effort in the natural has been a pittance compared to where He wants me to go, I'm finding that the idea of God valuing math has revolutionized my philosophy in relation to faith. You want to know what my philosophy is? $2+2=4$. It cannot be anything other than that. The truth is exactly what it is, even if we ourselves do not understand it, or if we ourselves get the wrong answer and have the wrong formula and have the wrong data or if corruption has seeped into the motivations of our teaching methods and our ahem.. corrupted unions of the devil in wink wink California..

So let me tell you why I took that whole side trail: because mathematically, God cannot be mocked. God's Word MUST BE TRUE. It doesn't matter if we feel like it is true or it should be true or we might not truly have great expectation but we reluctantly agree that the Word says what it says.. It simply is true. $2+2$ is 4. God has actually subjected Himself to His Own Word. Do you believe it? God CANNOT sin. To do so would render Him not God at all because He would cease to be perfect, it would be the very undoing of all Creation. Don't worry, My Bible says He is the same yesterday and today and forever, so you can be assured that the math will be accurate and He will not ever lie! And I think I wrote in the last letter just how I feel about FAITH and UNBELIEF. I've found the unbelieving have far more faith (as far as faith is a type of "muscle") than I do because Jesus just gives us ONE WAY.. and the world gives us infinite possibilities with statistical impossibility, like finding two transgenders in the same household or even in the same building: virtually mathematically impossible without premeditated intent. To believe that the worst combination of what the enemy has in store for us will be true takes a lot more faith than it does to believe God's one and only narrow way. In my opinion, how can we know that God is telling the truth and we have enough faith to believe it? $2+2=4$.

Okay so one side trail to another and then back to the beginning.. what is our math formula? If one shall humble himself, he will be exalted. And if he shall exalt himself, he will be humbled. You know, when I was young, the glory of my youth was in my strength. I was always feeling as if I needed to show people that I was competent and that I knew a lot, and I didn't take the Preacher's advice, and I despised correction, and I received quite a few blows to the back (in my case, literally and figuratively, which is why I need to be conservative at the gym).. And I felt offended if I wasn't noticed or honored when I felt I was very competent. I was always playing the comparison game. I was the master splinter (shout out to TMNT) counter. I could tell you what your flaw was so, so quick, because my goodness, you need to get that splinter out of your eye! Oh boy, did I have to get the naive beaten out of me.. Oh boy, did I go through some heat to polish the dross off the silver.

I'm not quite old yet, but can you imagine being twice as old as you were when you thought you knew it all? My goodness. I thought I had everything figured out, and can I tell you the secret? If we were to try and write all that Jesus did, we could not fill all the books in all the world. The totality of Knowledge is as far as east is from west. That means that if we are seeking and even if we are finding consistently, we will still keep going from glory to glory forever, because Jesus has no limit. Deep cries out to deep, and if you are wise enough to understand that humility is something better preemptively offered than forcefully subjected to, Jesus will begin to show you just how DEEP the ocean is.

So let's understand this that I am saying here: That which is greater than we can ask or imagine is upon us. You want to know what happens when Jesus understands the math? Jesus understood that forgiveness seventy times seven is superior to Lamech's call for vengeance. I tell you the truth, many evil ones on this earth have been giving a perverted offering and they have gorged themselves with power and influence in the manner of this world, and they have been protected from judgment for a time because they carry the mark of Cain. Vengeance is MINE, says the Lord. We are not supposed to say or do anything that God Himself did not say or do, much less take vengeance into our own hands that God Himself did not authorize us to do. I'm pretty certain there will be much Ananias and Sapphira reality to be seen in these days because oh boy did we have what appears to be an angel of light in the various earthly ministries even performing signs and wonders that turned the House of Jesus into a den of robbers. Goodness, we have filled the coffers of the hired hands. I would go so far as to say, the majority business model of the westernized church is the ministry of Judas (though I must disclaim, of course the individuals involved are themselves largely good and innocent and faithful, but lukewarm if you ask me). And if you want to understand how bad it is, I want you to try and imagine the exact worst thing that you could picture church leaders doing while of course, being bound by godly laws of the land that prevent them for the sake of their own brow from committing obvious crimes.. I assure you, without these laws set up by our Constitution, they would be far more murderous than the Pharisees ever were.

Why am I bringing this up? I didn't even plan to write this, lol.. but the Fire of Jesus compels me to tell the truth: that JUDGMENT BEGINS IN THE HOUSE OF THE LORD! The Lord revealed to me that some of the most seemingly anointed ministries operate like Potiphar and his wife: they love to take the orphans and the widows and take that widow's mite anointing, they love Mary's alabaster jar, and they love to ration it to build a name for themselves, supposedly to do outreach for the poor, without themselves truly stewarding the cost, but they love to make it appear as if they have to the public eye.. and if you want to understand what false fathering and mothering looks like, look no further than Potiphar's wife: it wasn't enough that Joseph was enslaved in their house and they were prospering beyond their wildest dreams.. She wanted to completely control his life and pervert his innocence and make him turn away from his God. And what do many ministry houses do in the heart? Worse than these. Believe me, you don't want to know more than you need to.

I want to be as conservative as I can here because God knows I have feelings about these things, but here's the most prudent way I can put it: For many of these, it would be better if they tied a millstone to their neck and jumped into the deep ocean than to lead God's people astray. Woe to these ones who cannibalize the widows and the orphans to build idols to their own greatness. Great has been their pride and great will be their fall. And the people will rejoice from being delivered from the yoke of thieves in power.

Maybe I'll go into detail another time about my theory of why God allows people to go from palace to prison and back to palace, but suffice it to say: I believe that this is the most expedient and effective way to ensure that one gets the most experience (we are called to be ALL THINGS TO ALL, remember, to preach the good news to ALL CREATION) without pride getting in the way. There's something about fasting that casts out the strongmen demons, and sitting in the humble seat and putting a knife to your throat when the dainty morsels come is a great way to show the King you can be trusted when He elevates you to the seat of honor. This is no shortcut process because, remember, God cannot be mocked. $2+2=4$. It is probably, for most people, a minimum of 15 years being faithful but rejected and dismissed in favor of someone that appears to be anointed because they have the stature of the world according to love of money. Long years of working hard and having their wages changed ten times. But not without purpose.

This is my best attempt to convey the sheer MAGNITUDE of what Jesus is bringing in this hour. We are NOT in my opinion, anywhere near the second coming of Christ, but you should pay attention to the parable that they often give you in say, law or med school. Look to your right and look to your left and understand that there is a likelihood that only one of you will remain standing. When harvest time comes, the wheat and the weeds are separated and placed into different piles. The fruit of the produce of the earth is gathered into the barn and the nonproductive waste is reduced to ashes. And we are going to see that in the world and in the Body of Christ, many who we thought were faithful were only so in front of the crowds. They exalted themselves and they actually went out of their way to prevent the average church goer from coming into the inner circle, and for that they will be met with the severe judgment given to one who knows the Master's will. Some of them, it would have been better than them if they had never been born.

The JUDGMENT OF GOD is like a massive earthquake and it will be revealed who has been faithful behind closed doors and who has been lacking. For the ones who were anointed and appointed for the time and disobeyed, they will be judged with many blows. And to the ones who were not anointed and not appointed, but called, who failed to obey, they will be judged with lesser blows. There will be a sort of RESET to factory settings which will be essentially zero because most people built their foundation on sand. I don't believe this means everyone will lose every penny they have earned but for those that do, it might be better for them because some are called to sell everything they have.. not tell their interns to do that while they get rich, like the Christian Communists do, but actually do it. Those who perverted truth, those who compromised, those who trusted in money, those who held idols in their heart, those who dug their talents in the sand -- they all get a chance to start from however deep the hole is that the earthquake shook in their land.. and frankly, this is good news if your house is filled with worthless fluff and no substance.

With massive judgment is massive RECOMPENSE, because God cannot be mocked. Do you understand? $2+2=4$. So it isn't a matter of what you think your personal ability is or what you believe your level of readiness is. It has everything to do with the idea that apart from Jesus we can do nothing and the sure promise that He will never leave us, nor forsake us. That which we have sown is going to be reaped in harvest and that which we have done will be returned in KIND. Oh, love me tender and love me true. The dishonest scale the hypocrites charged as a tax for a dose of the hype masquerading as the presence of God, while they kept all of the substance for themselves so they could be in their own eyes wise and forever rulers will itself be weighed by God's scales of justice.. and maybe for the first time in their lives, many will see scales fall from their eyes. Remember what I alluded to earlier about counting splinters? To the humble and the lowly who sat at the humble seat and did not place themselves at the seat of honor and did not dress themselves in the fancy metrosexual garb (50 percent kidding) and did not try and give themselves a fancy title for the sake of their own name, those who did not show preference to the inner circle ministry team and their temple eunuch proteges -- the upgrade that is coming will be in accordance to that which is due.

My goodness, I didn't intend to write any of this.

TLDR: Massive abominations have occurred in the Church and in our land and massive judgment is coming for the wicked and massive recompense is coming to those who have been faithful, and those who have humbled themselves and didn't dig their talent in the sand (false humility) will be elevated and those who have been wanting will be reset to the foundation.. which for many people will be like sobering up for the very first time.

Okay, let's get to some of the things I've said in the past to most of you personally who are reading this around the time it was published, and some of it in my prior newsletters.

In December 2019, God told me that this next decade would belong to the CRAFTSMEN. How did I picture this playing out? Technological increase making many of the valued tasks and duties obsolete in the same way computers made bookkeepers obsolete. And yet the fiduciaries who are faithful stewards can now use software when perhaps before they needed a whole DMV-style bureaucracy of bean counters. It seems the backwards IRS failed to get the memo.

And then when the China virus was launched in 2020's Plandemic, we saw a few things happen. We saw that productivity in the case of many did not skip a beat when people were sent home, and many having tasted a sense of semi-autonomy will never want to work for the taskmaster spirit ever again, as long as they remain in demand. We saw that the schools were largely obviously perverted and even I did not understand the level of abuse going on in those places. Talk about dividing up a child against themselves by grooming them to be sterilized and mutilated without parental consent. Here I thought it was just the satanic masking and the clot shot vaccines, but it turns out they were pushing transgenderism and pedophilia pretty hard, weren't they? And we're finding now that the institutions that we pay so many taxes for are actually not nearly a fraction of what we pay for them. Sigh, ask me how I feel about bureaucrats and Communists one day please..

The other thing that happened is people took time off work and started remembering their hobbies. Baking, gardening, crafting, brewing, fitness, extracurricular study, writing projects and art projects and musical instruments.. These are things I firmly believe we are more put on earth for than the love of money Matrix system where we trade our livelihood and our hopes and dreams (yielding hope deferred) for what economists theoretically call utils which are given in exchange for producing widgets.

God told me something else that I've heard nobody say so far: WE ARE ENTERING THE CAPITALIST AGE.

So let me try and summarize as best as I can and in what I am lacking, I hope what I fail to give in eloquent speech, the anointing of Jesus can impart to you by demonstrations of substance by impartation. In the Name of Jesus, Angels of Heaven, get to work immediately on behalf of those sons and daughters who believe!

God has me reading newspapers quite a bit. I think it is a God quality in a way, because the eyes of Jesus roam to and fro across all the earth, looking to see if He will find faithfulness. I can't quite count the hairs on everybody's head, but I can spot patterns and do the math. See, there's that math again. I can see when we are being propagandized. I can see who are known liars. And I can see who appears to be telling the truth. And I can see those who are believers and who are unbelievers. If you watch the ways of the world and listen to the words of someone's mouth, you will get a good taste of their motives. Ask God for Wisdom and it will become obvious.

So here's what I've seen that Solomon has seen. That the pattern of the world is VANITY -- like chasing after the wind. Like running east and trying to catch west and never getting there. Now we have quite the superior covenant and I don't have the sorrow of a whole harem and a series of demonic altars plaguing me like Solomon did but I can see that most people chase a double-minded prize and because of that they are always pushing hard and going nowhere fast. It's like running on a treadmill but at least on a treadmill you get to build a measure of fitness. You didn't go anywhere and if you're like me, treadmills age your knees, but at least we got this feeling of busyness, didn't we? And if you're like me, you race the people running on the treadmill next to you whether they know it or not, so you got a semblance of connection, didn't you? But not the real thing.

That isn't the race we are called to run. A real race has stakes and a real race has a prize, and a real race has a starting point and an ending point. Many fail to finish the race. Many don't realize they've started. And many don't realize it's their eleventh hour and their remaining time is very precious.

What many people fail to realize is God's words are true (don't make me quote the math problem again) and He is always speaking but if He was to give us wine, would there be a hole in our wineskin? If He gives us a task, do we believe in Him to complete it and walk faithful to the path He laid out for us? If we ask Him for bread, He doesn't give us a stone, and if we ask Him for a wife, it isn't His fault we keep going back to our toxic exes and stay stuck for decades at a time (shots fired). If we ask Him for money, the only kind He will give to us is that which does not produce sorrow. But if we're being real with ourselves, most of what we lust after in America is Mammon, and that does not come from God. If we were to take inventory of all of the opportunities and our stewardship of them, it isn't God that failed to keep His end of the bargain.

Back to the point: I saw that much of what we consider INDUSTRY is essentially Vanity.. chasing after the wind. You might call the modern marketplace largely a vanity fair. And you might call most degrees given by modern institutions akin to that King of the Hill episode where Peggy was the only sane person gullible enough to be invited to the "genius school." My goodness, I don't know why I'm writing like this today. I like to have a sharp sword but I don't desire to be cutting.

I hope I don't need to disclaim that I believe there are honest workers and honest work, but if you look at much of our major industry and the players that control the financial system on the backs of all of the honest laborers, you'll see that they use slave factories with suicide nets to produce much of what we consider to be consumer goods.. They have intentionally compromised the quality of their products so that they need to be purchased again and again. Food companies are mostly subsidized and they sell foodlike products that contain addictive and toxic chemicals that don't nourish our bodies. They are trying to push mandatory electric batteries that cost more to make than they make up for in value.. highly subsidized once again, so we wonder why all the inflation.. they actually cause more pollution than gas guzzlers so for all these people that are claiming they care for the climate, where's the outrage about the hypocrisy?

We keep donating money to a foreign war we know nothing about.. no voting, no debating, just money sent to a slush fund somewhere on the other side of the world, and even what little is reported shows that the money is not being spent prudently, and much of what we send actually falls into the hands of essentially modern pirates and even enemy hands. Just look what Obama's third term gave to the Taliban as a free gift, along with some of our soldiers as a tithe to the gods of that land.

And the other behemoth is the pharmaceuticals.. the ones who likely have the technology to actually make people well but they don't do so because they will lose a customer. Foodlike products make us sick, so-called environmental regulations which actually make the air and water quality worse (just take a look at Lahaina if you want to see what leftist climate activism gets you). Yet they push vaccines that they price gouged at 500 percent what they should cost and they bought many millions more than they could possibly give so they ended up throwing it away.. and because all of it was.. you guessed it, subsidized, we have this massive inflation. And what does the banker class do to solve inflation? They increase profits for themselves in the form of transaction costs. That's what interest rates do, by the way: they raise taxes with these claims that they "cool down the economy." If that was true, why is it we have increased our donations to Terrorism, Inc., aka the military industrial complex, hmm? Anyways, I'm ranting again.

But suffice it to say, we have been under the yoke of taskmasters, working very hard but never progressing.

Let me illustrate with a parable. I've begun to garden because God told me to (and YOU reading this need to garden if you can and you should get chickens if you can) and I've started to have a little nursery area where I grow crops from seed because buying transplants at a hobby level is crazy ridiculous expensive by comparison.. But just like the average human, before I set up my auto watering system, which still fails sometimes, I had to go out and water my nursery once and even twice in the hot summer weather every single day. If I was gone for a day or two or if I just got burnt out and failed to go out in the appropriate time, and even if the weather was just ridiculous and the bugs got the better of me in the garden.. I noticed that the plants that were neglected but didn't die in their infancy often managed to produce a single fruit before they died. They never got transplanted out to real soil or to a more substantial pot, they essentially survived in a little cup the size of roughly two fists (maybe three if you have small hands like me).

Did you understand? I'm totally relying on God because I'm not feeling like my Hemingway muscle is working well today. Did you get it? As long as the plants were not snuffed out while very young, even in cases of neglect, many of them produced a single fruit before they ultimately died.. fruit that had seeds.

Do you see what is going on with the human race in this generation? Apart from Me, Jesus said, you can do nothing. You can actually gain the whole world and lose your soul. But what is it that most people are told to do? They are taught to run hard on this treadmill called the Matrix, most people in this past era did not ever accomplish the fullness of the book God wrote for them (remember, the Way is Narrow), most people did not leave an inheritance to their sons and daughters (the Bible calls it wicked), even in America.. but instead they had a child, sent them to the bureaucracy, let them gain their values from the world and from the television, but at least they passed their seed down, and thank God that His callings and purposes are without repentance, which means they are not double minded, they do not perish.. but the vessel in which they were intended to be delivered doesn't always deliver.

Get it? Most people are funneled into a career for money purposes and most never take the risk or pay the cost required to do what God birthed into their heart. I dare say most people did not marry the person they were supposed to but instead relied on youthful passions and then got stuck there and separated fifty percent of the time. Most people even if they call themselves Christian participated in a lukewarm capacity. Holiness became an optional phenomena under this perverted doctrine that says man is desperately wicked and attempting to walk in holiness is futile because at least we prayed the prayer.. Let me tell you something: HEAVEN IS NOT LUKEWARM! But thank God, youthful passion often leads to a child, even if that child is not wanted. God CHOSE THEM and ordered many steps that they would come onto this earth even as the people made their own plans.

So let me tell you that the difference between this and what God has planned is what we might call the pattern of the world compared to a phenomena we might call FOR SUCH A TIME AS THIS. God intended you to be born in this time in this country in this era for such a time as this, and if you are breathing and capable of reading the words off this page, you have opportunity to get in that prayer closet and ask God to onramp you onto the Highway of Holiness.

What God is intending in the midst of potentially hard times on the horizon is to show us His Faithfulness if we will be set apart for His Kingdom, that we would be made to prosper, and prosper truly. Dare I say that even as our currency has been inflated, so too has our offering been like Cain's leftovers? Just enough work to produce energy for the battery that is the Matrix Brave New World mechanism.. But did God make us to trade eternal cosmic substance for the love of money that moth would eat and rust would destroy? Most certainly He intended for us greater than we can ask or imagine. Dare we believe Him?

Here's what I think. I think hard times are upon us and the illusion of choice will be removed from many people. It will seem very harsh but it will actually be a great mercy, like God's seemingly harsh but actually very loving discipline in the wilderness after the exodus out of Egypt. It's crazy to me people have been prophesying a Red Sea rescue and they want to skip right over to the Promised Land without forty years in the desert, reminiscent of a time in which most of those people failed to enter in because of their unbelief and rebellion except two faithful and the children of the unbelievers who got to go in. I know it doesn't preach well, but most preachers nowadays have conveniently skipped over that part as if God can be mocked or as if $2+2$ does not equal 4.

My goodness people have abused free will and have made an idol out of CHOICE. We have a choice this day who our household will serve, but that's about it. We have a narrow way and we have a wide road filled with the illusion of choices. My goodness, it is ironic and sad and actually a little bit humorous, the reality of God. It will come as a shock to many, but if people want to know why they remain stuck year after year, they just have to look at the math. To the degree that people decide to look at the math and change their side of the equation, they'll see God is faithful to execute the other side of the equation if they'll go back and check the order of their steps.

Another economics lecture I'm not going to deliver today is a phenomena called OPPORTUNITY COST. It's the reason the talent in the sand is considered wicked and deserving of gnashing of teeth. God told me many years ago that when an organization ceases to operate for the purposes in which it was born, it begins to die. But when a grain of wheat falls to the ground and dies, what does that prepare the way for? Multiplication. Even the Samsons of the world without the great exploits leave a legacy, don't they?

Again I have to just say, I'm feeling like the tone of this letter is a certain kind of way. I write this with love, but I hope I'm conveying a kind of SOBRIETY. I think most of the Christianese have managed not to abuse alcohol after their conversion but they are drunk on the pattern of this world and they need to be shaken awake to the reality that they are in the Matrix and if they don't walk in their God-given authority, they are a slave in a prison they cannot see or taste or touch.

Okay, let me keep myself on track here. I wanted to explain that the season is shifting, that the magnitude is larger than we can imagine, that there is going to be a replacement of wicked rulers with righteous and faithful vessels, and there's a reality that people still have a choice this day that they will choose which God they will serve and choose which way to go the rest of their days.

But if we're sharing faithful wounds in love, let me just say to those like me approaching or past middle age: the time is short. I don't mean to say that people aren't going to live out many of their days for many more decades, but remember that apart from Him we can do nothing.. and what may seem to be a lot of years on the earth is just a drop in the bucket for God, and I believe we have limited and small windows on this earth when we are shocked by a quake so severe that we have to reexamine our foundations. I'm telling you right now, if you get the opportunity to repent and you go right back to your vomit, I can't promise you're going to get another chance in the remainder of this decade and if you miss this decade window, I believe it will be another eighty years (loosely based on the Fourth Turning idea) before we have another opportunity to capitalize on the shaking that is to occur. The people of Lahaina are reexamining which gods failed to save them in their most crucial hour and it's not politically correct to say that but consider the evil done over there compared to the evil done in say, Los Angeles or San Bernardino or Las Vegas. It doesn't even seem fair, does it? Be sober minded and vigilant in this hour, my lovely friends, because change comes like a thief and we do not know the day nor the hour, but many prophets have been blue in the face and rejected and called crazy for many decades, so we cannot say we were not warned.

And let me side trail to the Jonahs out there.. WHAT TF ARE YOU THINKING! Lol. WAKE UP DUDE! You are God's CHOSEN VESSEL and if you run from that calling you might get swallowed by the whale. I know we tend to think of Jonah as this loner who had no life and was running away because he was some holy man and those people were so evil.. Can I submit to you that the Jonahs in this era are people like you and me? They have needs for money and they have needs for love and they are kinda walking in two ponds right now.. the desire to do what God wants and the desire to make provision for their fleshly desire. Hope deferred creeps at the door if we fail to walk in excellence like Peter tells us in his second letter. I'm sorry to tell you this, but world changers are always going to make an impact. Whether that impact is good or evil depends on your faithfulness and obedience to the Word of God in this hour.

And let me take another side trail while I'm at it: for the approaching middle-aged singles out there. Don't take this as a thus saith the Lord from my own lips but let me maybe talk to you more like famous insurance salesman Frank Bettger would: if I was your own brother, I'd tell you what I'm about to tell you right now. Resist situationships and resist the urge to be a forever alone cat lady. My goodness. I know it's hard to keep hope alive and then stay away from the various temptations that are coming but I believe in the same way that Paul was telling people in that time period it was better to be alone if they had the gift of being a eunuch for Jesus, I believe it is actually the other way around in this generation: I believe that we have so much artificial companionship due to technology and not just high tech devices, but say, a barista can serve you a drink for a price and a church greeter will shake your hand and a ministry team will lay hands on you and give you a side hug and the government in Communist regions will tax the heaven out of small business owners so you can live off welfare and even get housing and you can get your carnal needs for adventure and purpose met emotionally by playing video games and watching Netflix.. but RUN FAR AWAY from these middle-aged temptations! Oh my goodness. When these Q people say we can't stop what is coming, I have to wonder if that's going to shake people free of this weird purgatory we find ourselves in.

So let me try and get to the main points once again because this is the status quo and here are some admonishments, but I also have some serious revelation and practical application.

So 2+2 is 4 and God is faithful and He gives us what we ask and we have not because we ask not or I tend to prefer James nowadays: we ask with wrong motives and God cannot mock himself by giving us something evil even if it appears as good. I think we've all been given a series of addictions in this generation, a Brave New World type of soma to swallow.. and God gave us a way out and let me tell you what I think it is:

REPENTANCE! I think it is folly to expect BREAKTHROUGH without repentance. And let me tell you what I think the primary area of repentance is: OUR SPEECH. We are snared by the words of our mouth. Do we all know that verse? James likened our tongue to a kind of rudder. If you're brave, ask God to bridle your tongue and He is faithful to accomplish His will. Ask God to make your heart like water so that you might be like a king on this earth and the Lord can direct your heart any way He wishes.

Let's name the top three for most people and we can maybe branch off: Health, Finances, Relationships. Why am I not 100 percent completely well? Where are the finances I need? Why isn't my wifey here yet, Lord? Dare I say? I believe it is primarily because of our speech. It's not as simple as a 1980s motivational seminar, but in effect, given the same level of authority from yesterday to today, productive speech is far superior to unproductive speech. It's an affront to God to say our words don't matter because Jesus is the Word. The only thing keeping you alive right now is Words and Word by-products. Every invention was a word, every creation was a word, every living expression of every plant and animal has a DNA helix full of words.. I mean I'm not going to go down that path and darken counsel with knowledge above my current pay grade, but I hope I belabored the point.

Why are we still single? I gotta say, I meet a lot of unhappy single middle-aged Christians whose every other word that comes out of their mouth is an indirect accusation that God isn't faithful to answer their prayers. And they find themselves in compromise and they find themselves keeping records of wrongs, going over every sad story like they aren't creating a future reality. I've done it myself probably more than all of you reading this combined, so I ought to know. Complaining, gossip, slander, non-excellent speech, otherwise known as cussing and cursing and all the like (all of which I'm horribly guilty of).. these are turn offs. Dare I say when I was a low quality speaker, all I attracted were low quality people, and those relationships never lasted. Wonder why? What is 2+2 again?

Why is our health bad or not ideal? Well, let me tell you, we can't individually do anything about Fauci and China and the WEF and WHO right this second except what we pray and what information we share, but I might add that God has kindly rebuked me for having the habit of quarreling.. rendering my own effort useless or counterproductive except that I have a body of knowledge in the doing of research, and yet apart from Him what am I accomplishing really? For most people right now, if they aren't in world leader seats, let me plead with you not to waste time like I wasted time and put yourself in the humble seat and wait for God to invite you up to the front when it is time. If you have a justice heart like I do and a justice call like I do, you want change to happen before you were born, but that isn't how God ordered it so we better learn to handle what we got or else when the time comes our strength will be limited. Their time will come with the next Nuremburg, but right now we aren't (most of us) entrusted with MUCH yet. Donald Trump and Nigel Farage are entrusted with MUCH right now because they are in the peak of their life and are seated in the positions of power, and Nigel can't bank and Trump is facing imprisonment and assassination, so maybe you and I should be thankful we aren't there yet.. The best thing we can do is watch our words right now until it is time for promotion. The prayers of the saints move mountains even from the first day they are saved. Do you believe it?

And let me be bold enough to say: YOU reading this are almost certainly a world changer. If I invited you and you are reading this letter, it's because you got flagged as a world changer in my book. Dare I say your destiny is far greater if you just believe in what God has been telling you in the secret place? Do we believe our latter days are greater than our former days? Anyways, let me stop rambling, but you get the picture. You're amazing. But most of you who know me personally, you are entrusted with comparatively LITTLE right now.. like your tongue, the rudder. What an amazing, world changing device.. but we as individuals gotta get it under control or else we will be limited to our level of speech.

So as far as personal health and not world political terrorism, isn't it a result of diet and exercise and genetics? Well.. I mean, personally I think even without immediate supernatural healing, that a hopeful heart heals faster than a hope deferred heart. I've read accounts of people in the pre-pharma-industrial-complex era whose medical methods were limited or downright unproductive (imagine, they gave Theodore Roosevelt smoking as a treatment for asthma, lol).. Some people were going to die but they were told to move to a warmer climate with sunny weather and they managed to find a purpose and made some friends and they recovered.. and there are many other stories of people who were sick and dying but then they fell in love with the nurse who took care of them and married them and they recovered. Why don't we have these kinds of stories on the airwaves today, eh? These are all from old books and the modern media marketplace are mediums from the wide road.. But here we go again, hope deferred makes the heart sick so we are told we should guard our hearts. What did Jesus say defiles the heart? The words that come out of our mouth. Man does not live by bread alone, but by words. Jesus knows what He's talking about, does He not?

And as far as the diet and exercise part.. Oh my goodness have I had so many arguments with so many people with so many excuses, myself included. If you've met me in the last ten years, you know me for having fitness habits and avoiding all the food that I think might cause me issues, but if you knew me before then, you would have known I had issues kicking all sorts of horrible habits. I didn't eat well or exercise and I really abused all manner of substances and many other things before I turned and followed the Lord, but as long as I justified my own mediocrity in the privacy of my own heart, there was never any hope of change. I feel a little bit bad for the few Christians that dared pray for me when I was a mess, and even though I didn't change for many years, they sowed words into my garden when I wasn't being faithful to my own heart. But anyways: do you get the picture? Some people claim it's a financial thing and some people claim it's a knowledge thing.. some people fall into exceptional categories of such and such rare whatever and the narrative they keep speaking over and over is this bad report about how sick they are and how God's promises haven't worked for them.. I mean, look, can I tough love you a little bit if you are reading this? Those things, even if factually true, will not get better with speech reinforcing their foundations. So I don't want it to be the corny personal development broken record affirmations that the pagans use, but even that is superior to whining and complaining and grumbling and their cousins, insincere words without faith that sound good on the surface.. Remember that Scripture, "They honor me with their lips but their hearts are far from Me?" But even still, scraps off the table are superior to the crap that passes for dog food nowadays, amirite?

Anyways, where are we.. this letter is taking on a life of its own here. Bible says to bear with one another so.. if I can ask that you go the extra mile here with me, I hope it is valuable for ya.. You can shortcut it with the Lord and ask Him to have you flip to the page and the passage you need to see.. He'll totally do it.

You get the picture. It's the same for money. There's a Scripture about well-spoken words that earn you a meal. Anyone been broke here? You know that short of overstaying your welcome you can talk your way into a meal or a place to rest or a ride, especially in Christian circles. In my own limited capacity, sometimes with a little money and sometimes with no money, I have to say that in my own personal experience, my attitude shifted everything, even the favor of people around me, and that only changed when I was honest with myself in my heart and sought out things that were honorable and faithful and true and lovely. When I was out being foolish with what meager things I had, it was as if there was this hole in my satchel and everything I gained in wages was immediately stolen. Wages of sin is.. well you guys are the world changers. I assume you know that Scripture too.

Let's get to the revelatory part: what God showed me about SPEECH and the Wilderness. Do you think God a cruel taskmaster for keeping his newly emancipated ones in the wilderness? Dare I say this: God COULD NOT BRING THEM IN TO THE PROMISED LAND because of their grumbling. Artists out there, have you ever known what it is to have your work erased? What happens if you start building a house full of bricks but then you tear it down with your own hands? Anybody done this? Imagine if a farmer planted something in the ground but then dug it up every few days and dug it back in the ground. Imagine if he failed to water it. Do you know we only reap a harvest after weeks and months of well-doing? Do you know it takes years and decades to have good soil?

These summer months have been a little bit of a battle, honestly. Even with my humble-sized garden and my automated sprinklers and my nocturnal schedule, fighting off these pests and keeping things alive and harvesting and building all the infrastructure has been no joke (though it has been a labor of love, and I've been so happy doing it all, thank God). Beating the birds to my newly ripe fruits and keeping the plants alive from the opportunist creatures and making time and keeping myself motivated has been a journey of my speech. There were times when I dropped the ball for a couple days and some of the more fragile things did die as a result of my neglect. And that's just the way it is. You can plant something in the ground for several weeks and many months and if something goes wrong.. that's too bad. I don't get my money back. I don't get my time back. I don't always know what went wrong so I don't always have the easy microwave lesson. But that's just how it goes sometimes. I can only imagine what it's like to miscarry..

But let's go back to the math logic here.. we are building a foundation with our WORDS. We can't see it but we know it exists because we have FAITH and faith is SUBSTANCE.. meaning it exists but it is still invisible. IS is equals. Most of us have some sort of an imagination, so I have to say, even if you aren't a seer, that imagination is a great vehicle for something to exist in. With even the smallest amount of creative imagination, you can write a little bit on a page and work with what is on a page, and you can build a business and build a life with your words on paper and those words, not being contradictory over a carrying season will eventually give birth to WORKS. Do you understand? Faith is PERFECTED IN WORKS.

So what happens if you are creating a heavenly reality with your words, binding here and loosing there, but right before the harvest season, the enemy manages to get you to come into agreement with his DOUBT or dilute our efforts with distractions or whatever? What happens if you are driving a car and you keep making a U-turn and going the other direction? God cannot bless a grumbler. Cannot. Not just will not but cannot. Remember 2+2? God will not give us worthwhile that require measures of faithfulness if we are not faithful because He would cease to be God. He can give immediate graces and mercies and emergency provisions, but these things are most often provided by other people who WERE FAITHFUL WITH THEIR OWN SPEECH and they gave out of the excess that God trusted them with.. no different than a child must rely on his adults. Do you understand? That's why these Communists and socialists have not a clue when they ask for free stuff and they don't realize that somebody labored for that and the government stole a portion, but because of God's substantial goodness, even the death row inmates in this country don't go hungry at night.

But I'll tell you something else, in today's society, nobody can do your toil for God to bless you with a godly wife. Nobody can do your push ups for you. Nobody can speak through your lips unless you give them access to your heart (I'm talking God and I'm also talking demons, friends).

Whew, a couple more ideas and then we're done.

If I've managed to convey that the breakthrough is here, that it is substantial, that it is CONTINGENT upon our SPEECH.. that we are CO-creators in Christ Jesus.. and that if you aren't awake now, you will be when the shocks comes and then you will hopefully remember the truth of the window of opportunity.. let me tell you what I think is going to happen and some suggestions for what I think is wise to do right this second.

I talked in my last letter about CONFIDENCE and in closing side doors so that we aren't diluted.. and let me tell you that this is exactly what speech is. Jesus is the Word and Jesus is the Door, and Jesus is the Way, and dare I say that nothing we say means anything if Jesus didn't put that thing into our heart first, and I repeat that apart from this Word we are literally saying and doing nothing substantial. Our words are a FOUNDATION.. The world's foundation is Words.. The universe is governed by LAWS.. Let there be LIGHT is WORD SUBSTANCE.. Everything that is and was and ever will be and even that which will be eventually blotted out are right now governed by LAWS made up of WORD SUBSTANCE.

So remember the Three Little Pigs story? That's really what Jesus is saying about the STORM. When JUDGMENT comes on the earth because God is not mocked and people have chosen to not believe Him and are thus subject to the consequences of what people have sown into the territory, when there is a great shaking, that's when foundations move. And if we believe in the words of Jesus, then our foundation is like that of the piggy who build a house of brick.. and the wolves can't get in if we don't let them in.

Do you hear me? When God tells you to let people go, LET THEM GO! If you are awake for that decision, don't let sleep come to your eyes, you hurry up and you get that LIABILITY OFF YOUR BALANCE SHEET. Remember that a liability for you because they are not in God's timing for you is an asset to somebody else. You know what God told me about people I had to let go of? He told me, "It's better that you let them go now because where you are going it is going to be very dangerous for them and they will not survive."

Don't make excuses. Remember what we said about Words? Excuses is just faith in the devil. Everyone has a unique situation and I don't want to minimize it but let me propose another idea.. that just because you don't have ten talents doesn't mean you don't have one. I'm not the president and I don't have billions of dollars but I have more years left than he does and I can use the next forty years to gain a platform if a platform is what God wants for me to have. When I didn't have a car, I was fortunate enough to have a bike and when I was scared to get hit by cars and was physically out of shape, I was fortunate to be blessed with resolve to overcome my weaknesses. When I didn't have a bike, I was fortunate enough that I had the ability to run. Oh my goodness, did I used to run for that bus, lol. The kingdom of God is like one who is sprinting with their books in their backpack when they are almost late to class to catch a bus and he catches it right on time the moment before it leaves.

And some people are not in their right mind, but you reading this are intelligent enough to read and comprehend these words. Sometimes people are afflicted in their body, but they can control their words and some people are not given the right to speak, but they can control their thoughts.

You know what God told me about time? He said, "If you are faithful with the time you have, I will give you more." What does that mean? We only have twenty-four and seven and three-sixty-five, right? But God only knows.

A warning: not every season is the same. Sometimes as Jim Rohn said (paraphrasing a bit), sometimes it's winter and the night is very long and we're out of money and our heart is broken and our car is out of gas and our phone is disconnected and we're tired and we're lonely but we need to keep on going. Sometimes the season is short and I'm telling you, I think for many, the time is short. You must ask God for the gift of open eyes right now if you don't know for sure you have it, and if He gives you a window of opportunity, don't let sleep come to your eyes before you craft some structures with your words. A warning about talents: if you are not faithful with what little you have, you can lose that too. Ask me how I know.

So what are we looking at? We're looking at TRANSFORMATION for a New Era. Transformation happens by the renewing of the mind and the mind is renewed by words. So I would say, be careful what you say, be careful who you associate with, be careful what you let go into your eyes and into your heart if you let it linger.. We cannot boast for what tomorrow might bring for we do not know. We can only be faithful with today's toil and today's worries, but we can plan for tomorrow and God may be gracious in how He orders our steps.

I believe if we can go back to reference the beginning that humbling of oneself by controlling your speech and your actions that flow from the condition of your heart has already led to stature in Christ and it will begin to manifest in stature with men. And this may be a clue to how what we have stewarded in the invisible storehouse that is the heart becomes manifest natural reality in the physical dimension. What I have most anticipated has come upon me!

I really do have a longer explanation but I'm keeping it short because the end is near for this letter, let me just throw in this huge idea: that with regard to Words, it is a big Scripture right now: STUDY TO SHOW YOURSELF APPROVED. And the idea came before my eyes just today that DISCIPLING OF NATIONS is partly a function of this phenomena of studying. Studying is just another word for, "My son, keep my words before your eyes, and they will descend into your heart."

On a larger level and I'll have to keep it brief and maybe expound upon it another time because quite frankly this letter is long and I'm feeling like I'd like to end it: for those who can receive this word, we are able to go from glory to glory and the primary currency in the heavenlies is words. So we must fight for our speech first in our own lives and then in our houses and in our cities and other places of influence and then in our lands and in our nations and then in countries and then in generations.. I wish I could explain the urgency. I'm physically feeling the heat of God as I'm writing this paragraph and maybe it's the fire that you need and not as much my intellectual explanations in my own limited capacity and strength (it's REALLY BURNING NOW).

The fight for our institutions is the fight for the TRUTH and the Truth is Words spoken from God's mouth. It is words that govern the heavens and the earth and it is of words that our laws are constructed and words that will build our new technology. It is words that open portals for angels to come and assist in all that God has put into your heart. Don't take them lightly. I wish I was a better vessel to do a better job of the sharing of this message, but unfortunately this is the best I got.

I know my Jesus is faithful and I know if you trust in Him He will fill in every gap that exists if you will just let Him.

In the Name of Jesus, let the Fiery Substance of Heaven come and engulf every Living Vessel reading my words According to Your Word. Let the ones who have oil burn and never go out and may the weeds in their garden be removed and burnt up with Holy Fire and let the Light of Your Truth shine in their hearts and may the burning desires, the works You placed in their Heart be completed by Your Faithfulness, let every dark place be exposed to the Light of Truth and every unwelcome word be cast off into the pit of hell where it belongs.

Whew. We did it dudes. Love you all.

I, Ryan, remain..

Very Truly Yours in Christ Jesus, the King of Kings and Lord of Lords, the one with a Sword in His Mouth and the Stars in His Right Hand. Holy is He and Blessed Is He for Many are the Arrows in His Quiver. Amen.
